

also chorus by the numbers

The St. Louis Symphony Chorus is an auditioned, world-class chorus made up primarily of volunteers from the St. Louis region. Founded in 1976, Chorus Director Amy Kaiser has been at the helm since 1995. The Chorus appears on stage at Powell Hall with the SLSO several times each season and is equally skilled performing nineteenth-century favorites and new works by composers of today.

“Amy Kaiser’s chorus never fails to elicit admiration on my part. They invariably sing with a gratifying power and precision.”

—Chuck Lavazzi, KDHX, 2018
